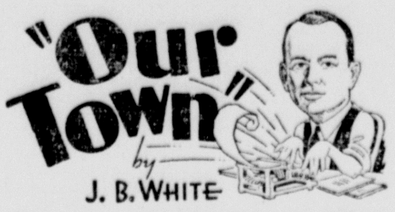
The Cameron Herald

VOLUME NUMBER 78. CAMERON, MILAM COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1938. EIGHT PAGES TODAY NUMBER 34



On Saturday December 10, farmers in Milam county will vote on the question of authorizing continued government control of marketing quotas of cotton. The campaign to re-sell the farmers on the government program has been conspicuous for its lack of information concerning the viewpoint of those who see economic disaster in Mlam county if production of major farm crops continues to be restricted to present levels.

With the view of being helpful in presenting the other side of the picture, the Herald undertakes here a brief outline of what has happened to cotton farming in Milam county under government supervision.

Based on figures supplied by the federal government, the cotton control program has cost the farmers of Milam county $1,730,347.00. This figure is astounding although approximately correct. We repeat the loss has been $1,730,347.00. It is a simple matter of multiplying and subtracting and any farmer can verify these figures by simply figuring the cost of the cotton crop and making the comparison. The normal cotton crop for Milam county over a period of ten years as reported by the federal government is 56,000 bales. Taking this figure for a period of three years it can be seen that the total crop under normal conditions and without government control would be 168,000 bales. Under government control for the past three years Milam county has produced approximately 101,000 bales. For convenience in presenting the difference in income and to show the loss sustained by the farmers we use a base figure of eight cents per pound. At three years of average yield, before government control, on a total production of 168,000 bales of five hundred pound weight, a total of 84,000,000 pounds of lint cotton was produced. At the average price of eight cents per pound the gross income for three years would have been $6,730,000.00. Under government control we produced 101,000 bales in the past three years or a total of 50,500,000 pounds of lint cotton and at eight cents per pound it represents a gross income of $4,040,000.00.

During the past five years the total amount of money paid in rentals, subsidies, etc., to the farmers of Milam county was $1,567,759. This represents an average government benefit of $313,551.00 per year and for three years the benefit was $940,653.00. Add the government benefits to the total amount of the cotton crop under government control and you have the sum of $4,980,653.00 Subtract this sum from the total value of the cotton crop under normal production and you have the sum of $1,730,347.00 which represents the amount of money cotton farmers have lost by following the government plan of restricted production.

In the face of these conditions farmers and business men alike are fast realizing that if the present government program continues, notwithstanding the benefits to be obtained from soil conservation, we are certain to meet economic disaster and close the door to employment and to recovery.

On the plight of the southern cotton farmer, we give you Mr. Landrum of the Dallas News:

Cato and Donald Duck

Critics of the column complain that so much is said herein about the administration. Something more than a Catonian demand that Carthage be destroyed is involved, however. In direct proportion as the people of this section fail to see what is happening to farming, emphasis and reiteration ought to be used.

It is not necessary to be either a Cato or a Donald Duck in order to face the facts of farm income in Texas as those facts are disclosed by the statistics of the government itself.

Go ahead and get ever so angry at the column, so long as you have the nerve—and the honesty—to look at the facts. Then judge for yourself.

The Cold Figures

Estimates of what constitutes a fair, normal agricultural income for Texas agriculture in all its branches will vary, of course. But here is the average gross income of all Texas farm products, including livestock, for the five years leading up to the depression:

Year	Gross Income
1925	$777,123,000
1926	768,771,000
1927	868,896,000
1028	889,664,000
1929	741,048,000
Five-year total	$4,045,502,000
Five-year average	$809,100,000

Simple enough it is—you add up the five yearly figures and divide by five: The average gross income of agricultural Texas is about eight

JUDGE GILLIS TALKS ON WORLD AFFAIRS

The difference between Communism, Natzism and Facism as they affect the status and the liberty of citizens, are one and the same, said Judge Graham Gillis in an address to the Cameron Rotary Club when he brought interesting information concerning the systems of government that have enveloped three of the major powers in Europe.

Judge Gillis, well informed on methods and systems of government confined his address to a discussion of the extent to which dictators have been able to go in controlling and subjecting millions of people to loss of both liberty and property. In the course of his talk, Judge Gillis touched upon the persecution of Jews in Germany as an indication of how racial differences may flame into hurtful relations among neighbors and also made a comparison of the status of citizens of Russia, of Germany and of Italy. There is little difference, he said, in the privileges enjoyed by citizens of these several countries. He said that as a result of dictatorships that the average

COURT HOUSE MADE BETTER SAYS KEMP

To the Citizens of Milam County:

At the request of the Commissioners' Court, I desire to make known prepared plans for repairs being made on the Court House, at the present time made possible by a Government PWA grant.

The roof is being modernized and the tower and clock will be removed as a necessary safety measure. The Court was advised, by competent authority, the tower was not secure and might collapse in the course of time. We were assured that the firm foundations and the excellent structure of the Court House will permit the erection of the fourth story if it should ever be needed. The approved plans call for a modern flat cement roof and the removal of the tower and clock.

The present roof has leaked badly for several years and damage was being done to the interior of the building. More than one Grand Jury has admonished the Court that repairs to the roof were needed. The Court has expended much money in repairs but to no avail.

Since a new roof was necessary other improvements to the building were included in present plans prepared by a competent architect and submitted to the U. S. Government for approval.

The removal of the fire hazard is quite important as the Milam County Court House was entirely destroyed by fire on April 9, 1874. The new roof will render the Court House practically fire proof which it is not at present owing to the many exposed timbers in the tower. The change will reduce fire insurance rates.

To finance repairs, the Court has secured Government aid through a PWA grant which provides payment of forty-five cents on each dollar expended on the project while the Court provides the remainder of the funds. After advertising, sealed bids were received and the contract was let for $23,932. A cash grant of $11,659 was made by the Government. This was not a loan but a gift. The tax rate will not be raised to provide the sum to be paid by Milam County.

J. E. Johnson is the Supervising Architect Engineer Inspector, F. R. Cromwell, represents the U. S. Government on the work. Roy Weems represents Milam County as Supervisor of the project.

All members of the Commissioners Court share the sentiment of citizens for the old clock, which was placed on the Court House when it was built in 1891. Plans are being made for its re-installation on the new roof. The faces of the clock will be visible from the four cardinal points. The clock works will be motivated by electrical power.

Work is proceeding satisfactorily on the project which is to be completed within 150 days.

Yours truly,
Jeff T. Kemp,
County Judge.

10 Per Cent Hike In Opposition to Bonds

With a total of only 237 votes cast on Tuesday, the property tax payers of Cameron authorized the issuance of $180,000 in revenue bearing bonds for the purchase of the properties of the Cummunity Public Service Company.

The vote was the most negligible manifestation of interest in a bond issue of this magnitude in the history of the city. The result was 144 votes cast for the bonds and 93 votes cast against the bonds.

Those who have watched developments in the city's program to obtain possession of the water company, find reasonable satisfaction in the results of the election because when compared with the previous election on September 28, 1937, at which time the voters authorized the bond issue of $150,000 an increase of ten per cent in opposition to the issuance of the bonds is shown. In the previous election in 1937 a total of 519 votes were cast, 364 votes for the bonds and 155 votes were cast against the bonds. The fact that only 237 votes were cast in the election on Tuesday, is taken as evidence of a sharp leassening of interest in the public utility program of the city. It was believed that when succeeding elections are called, additional gains will be shown when the situation is understood by the people at large.

When the people authorized issue of $180,000 on Tuesday, the previous bond issue was cancelled so that the city now has for negotiating purposes $30,000 more than under the previous authorization.

The properties of the water company are not for sale and will not be sold and in the event they are offered for sale, at any time in the future, it will be necessary for the people to again vote upon the question because the amount of bonds authorized on Tuesday are insufficient and will avail the people nothing, because the city has reached no agreement with the water company on the value of its system notwithstanding the fact that a committee of engineers have reported back fixing the value in excess of $171,000 on the properties of the company in Cameron. The city is still without a system of water works and those who are conversant with the facts believe no hope is seen for any such ownership.

The Community Public Service Company will resist in the courts any effort to confiscate its properties in Cameron. Continued manifestation of a low average of interest in public affairs is responsible for the continued success of these inadequate bond elections.

Sap Market is Leased by Mason Longmire and Brother

A business development of interest during the week was a lease given by Otto (Nin) Smith on his celebrated Sap Market to Mason and Arthur Longmire who have taken charge of the business.

Mr. Smith has purchased property adjoining his store and will shortly build a new home. The Messrs. Longmire are well known market and grocery store operators and they announced today that they would maintain the high standard of service that has made this business famous.

Mrs. Bennie Winfield and Mrs. Grady Stiham attended a Bell County PTA council meeting at the Academy Consolidated School at Little River this week.

GRETNA GREEN HAS TWO BLACKSMITHS TO MARRY ELOPERS

For the First Time Competition Enters Into Scotland's Marriage Mart.

Glasgow. — Scotland's Gretna Green now has two blacksmiths ready and willing to perform marriages over their respective anvils.

The existence of the second smithy was revealed recently by the elopement of a youthful English couple, Miss Audrey Patricia Smith, sixteen years old, of Clacton-on-Sea, and Sidney Swan, twenty-five years old, also of Clacton-on-Sea.

They were married over the anvil at Gretna hall, an inn not more than 100 yards from the blacksmith's shop where Richard Rennison, until now undisputed blacksmith of Gretna, has celebrated hundreds of weddings.

The opposition smithy, complete with anvil and bellows, was opened only recently by David McIntosh, the innkeeper who performed the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Swan.

Both blacksmiths eagerly put forward a claim that their "forge" is the original.

Could Use the Money.

"I decided only a short time ago to reopen my smithy and start marrying people," declared Mr. McIntosh.

"Many couples had come to Gretna hall to be married, and it seemed foolish to turn away good money. I charge a guinea ($5.11) for the marriage and 2 shillings 6 pence (60 cents) if I supply witnesses.

"My own opinion is that the marriages we perform will ultimately be abolished, but before then I hope to have a long and successful run."

Mr. Rennison, however, is not worrying about any opposition.

"My business is built on a solid foundation and is well organized," he commented. "When Mr. McIntosh took over the hotel he had no intention of marrying any one. Now his blacksmith's shop is almost a replica of my own."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Swan, on their honeymoon at Perth in Scotland, talked of their elopment as a grand adventure. Mrs. Swan ran away from the hotel where she lived with her grandmother.

"I stuffed some clothes into my pockets, packed some personal letters in a chocolate box, and tucked it under my arm—and walked," she related.

Grannie Was Suspicious.

"I was determined to get away. Grannie was suspicious, but I managed it."

Mr. Swan slipped a protective arm about his bride.

"We left Clacton in my car," he said, "to visit my sister, Mrs. J. J. Cook of South Chingford, Essex. Instead of going there, however, we took the train from Euston.

"About 10 o'clock we arrived at Gretna and when we reached the smithy the place was closed. We were told that Mr. McIntosh was in Carlisle at a pantomime. We decided to wait.

"Mr. McIntosh arrived shortly after 11 o'clock. 'I have a suspicion what you are both here for at this late hour,' he beamed.

"We agreed we wanted to be married.

"The ceremony was performed over the anvil, the only light being an electric flashlight which Mr. McIntosh held in his hand, casting a fantastic light over the dark room."

Wig Clipped as He Sleeps; Sues Barber for $5,075

New York.—Because he is laid open to embarrassing jibes, Ernst Reichner asked the Supreme court to award him $5,075, plus costs and disbursements, from Vincenzo Paglialonga, a barber.

In his complaint Reichner asserts that he is bald and wears a wig which cost him $75.

While wearing the wig on January 28 he sat in the defendant's barber chair and went to sleep.

When Reichner awakened, he declares, he found that the defendant had carelessly and negligently cut some of the hair from the plaintiff's toupee, thereby causing great damage and rendering it unfit for use and he is suffering the stigma of the bald headed man until he can get a new wig.

Oklahoman Is Arrested for Galloping His Team

Oklahoma City.—They had to go way back into the law books to find it, but Bud Clendon, forty-eight, faces a charge of violating an old statute, which makes a misdemeanor of "running any horse at an unusual rate of speed along any public road."

Jesse Gibson, constable, arrested Clendon, who, Gibson said, was bouncing along on a wagonload of lumber, pulled by two galloping horses.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 11.

The Golden Text is: "Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord: let thy loving kindness and thy truth continually preserve me" (Psalms 40:11.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom" (II Timothy 4:18.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Let neither fear nor doubt overshadow your clear sense and calm trust, that the recognition of life harmonious—as Life eternally is—can destroy any painful sense of, or belief in, that which Life is not" (page 495.)

CHEAP Dependable Electric POWER Service!

EVERY USER of Electric Service in Texas HAS AN EQUAL RIGHT to Cheaper Power!

"Cheap Power" is the title of this publication which tells, in pictures and condensed story material, that

. . . millions of tons of lignite, cubic feet of natural gas, and barrels of oil are used each year in generating electricity for Texas homes, farms and factories.

. . . 20,000 miles of high voltage transmission lines (almost enough to girdle the earth at its middle) carry this electricity to almost 1,000,000 users.

. . . the electric power industry in Texas employs 10,000 men and women . . . annual payroll, $12,000,000.

. . . this important Texas industry pays $8,000,000 annually in TAXES . . . more than half of which goes to Cities, Counties, Schools, and the State of Texas.

. . . the dependable electric service enjoyed today by almost 1,000,000 Texas users of electricity is the result of sustained efforts by the power companies to make such service available at the lowest possible cost.

Chevrolet Dealers Set up New Sales Record in 1938

A phenomenal record of 11,837,153 sales has been set by the Chevrolet Dealers of America during the last five years, according to W. E. Holler, general sales manager.

Mr. Holler has just completed his 5th year as Chevrolet general sales manager and it was brought out in an interview in New York as the Automobile Show started that 4,187,718 new cars and trucks were sold by company dealers during his administration, while at the same time they were selling 7,649,435 used cars. "The volume achieved by Chevrolet dealers during the last five years exceeded the largest company records for any previous five year period, including the boom years of 1929 and 1928 by 750,417 new passenger car and truck sales, and 1,849,012 used car sales," said Mr. Holler. "During this same five year period Chevrolet dealers sold 842,519 trucks, and this exceeds by 250,916 truck sales any previous five year truck sales in the 27 years' history of the company. "This outstanding selling record actually obtained for the company six years results in five years of selling, and is a testimony to the co-operative selling ability of 8900 Chevrolet dealers in the United States."

Asked how this all-time peak selling record was achieved Mr. Holler replied—"When fundamental policies are established that are fair and eqitable to a dealer organization—and then they are carefully and conscientiously administered year by year—accumulated confidence and selling strength bears results not obtained by any other temporary activities or plans. We attribute this six year record of results, obtained in only five years, to the Quality Dealer Program, with its elimination of over-packing of dealers and its scientific appointment of dealer locations, with consequent strenghtening of the entire Chevrolet merchandising structure as it deals with the buying public.

"The ultimate consumer has already discovered that the Chevrolet Dealer is a permanent establishment in the community, with his growing strength, financial independence and merchandising and service reputation.

"Such other policies as the planning partnership—where there is a committee of ten dealers on new car planning and ten dealers on used car planning in every one of the 45 zones in the United States—enables Chevrolet Dealers to transmit directly the practical merchandising plans and programs that they feel are necessary for their own interests and the interests of their own communities; and when these are brought thru the Regions and National Committees in Detroit they become national policies which immediately affect the sales policies making them most practical in field operations." Incidentally R. G. Grabein of the Grabein Chevrolet Company here, was a member of the used car planning committee of 1937.

"Not only does the consumer or purchaser recognize today outstanding reputation of the Chevrolet Dealer, but everything that the factory organization and the dealers together combine to promote in every local community has survived the test of dealer analysis, dealer thinking and dealer planning. It is a matter of record that 63 per cent of all of the recommendations made by the dealers have actually become the Chevrolet retail selling policies nationally.

"As a further confidence of the close dealer and factory relationship in Chevrolet, schools for dealers' sons have been conducted throughout the year 1938 with three graduating classes, comprising over 100 sons of dealers. These young men through the most strenuous practical retail merchandising courses have qualified for their diplomas, and have returned to their fathers' places of business to assume a leading position in the local dealer's operation. This proves conclusively that Chevrolet dealers realize and appreciate the heritage that can and is being built in Chevrolet retailing, to the extent that their sons in selecting a life vocation are now joining hands with their fathers in the operations of the independent dealer's operation.

"It is recognized in the Industry that these Chevrolet policies initiated over five years ago and carefully administered by trained specialists have been accumulating in value and results month by month."

It is not enough, concluded Mr. Holler, to declare in activities and writing fine dealer policies, but is much more important to see that these same policies are actually carried out in every detail for the interests and in behalf of the dealer organization.

This five year plan instituted by Mr. Holler has set a very definite trend, it is claimed, which other automobile companies have adopted in their relationships with their dealer bodies.

hundred millions a year for the five years before the depression. All right.

Under Crop Control

With no crop control, then, Texas was accustomed to a gross farm income of four fifths of a billion dollars a year. What happened when crop control and federal farm benefits began?

Year	Gross Income	Benefits
1933	$398,754,000	$44,961,000
1934	349,373,000	74,768,000
1935	430,316,000	61,563,000
1936	434,150,000	27,218,000
1937	508,176,000	36,000,000
Totals	$2,120,769,000	$244,510,000
Averages	$424,154,000	$48,902,000

In other words, since the depression, on a 5 year average, Texas has been receiving a gross farm income of $424,154,000 a year, plus an average benefit from Washington of $48,902,000, or a total average of $473,056,000 a year.

What's Going on Here?

What do the figures mean? It is plain arithmetic: Before crop control we were in the habit of getting four fifths of a billion per year from agriculture in Texas; since crop control we have been getting (benefits excluded) about two fifths of a billion per year from agriculture in Texas.

There is no wiggling to be done about that. It is simply so. Nobody intended that it would come out so. Nobody is bent on devouring the farmer.

But the loss is there.

Net Loss to Texas

Get out your old pencil again. Set down $809,100,000. (That's what Texas farming used to get per year before crop control.) Right under it, set down $424,154,000 (That's what Texas farming makes per year now under crop control.) Take the difference:

Before control	$809,100,000
After control	424,154,000
Gross loss	$384,946,000
Deduct benefits	$48,902,000
Net loss to Texas	$336,044,000

There you have it—on annual net loss for Texas of $336,946,000 AFTER federal benefits are figured in. Put it this way: The new deal benefits fall a third of a billion dollars short of making up to Texas its losses under crop control EVERY YEAR. A third of a billion every year—and what is true of Texas is true of the country as a whole on a vastly larger scale. Isn't it time somebody squawked?

Barmore

Houston police found Miss Barmore fatally wounded, lying on a bed in a cabin at a tourist camp at 5003 Main Street about 6:30 p. m. on Thursday. She died three hours later. Joseph Edward Biberstein, 32 year old Federal Housing Administration construction superintendent, in a statement to the Houston police said that Miss Barmore took her own life in a fit of despondency after she had lost employment with Bates Construction Company. Mr. Biberstein, a friend of Miss Barmore said in his statement that she expressed intention of taking her own life but felt that she was more or less hysterical for the moment as a result of having lost her employment. In his statement he said in part:

"About noon on Thursday I went to the construction office to inspect a job. While in the office I talked with Miss Barmore. She told me she was going to be fired. She went into Mr. Bates' office and a few minutes later came out and said she had lost her job. She also said she could not return to Cameron as a failure and seemed very much depressed over the situation. She asked me to take her to lunch and after luncheon I asked her if she wanted to ride around with me as I had several more jobs to inspect.

"She said, she would be glad to do so and we drove out to Mason Park then back to town where Miss Barmore telephoned a friend to cancel a shopping engagement because she had lost her job and could not spare the money to go shopping.

"After that we returned to my apartment in the tourist park and after a few minutes she asked me if it would be all right if she made herself comfortable and I told her it would be all right. So she lay down on the bed. I went into the bathroom to shave and in about two minutes I heard a shot and rushed into the room to find that she had shot herself with my pistol. I immediately called an ambulance and the police. The pistol had been left by me in a small case near the bed."

Mr. Biberstein was placed under arrest by Houston police and taken to jail but was later released when Justice W. C. Ragan held an inquest and Biberstein had made his statement to Houston detectives. R. E. Bates of the Bates Construction Company would make no statement regarding Miss Barmore leaving his office. Around midnight J. L. Barmore, father of the girl, left with James L. Coleman for Houston to return with the body. B. L. Ingram, former resident of Cameron and now a member of the Houston police force, telephoned Mr. Barmore early in the afternoon of Thursday that his daughter had been shot and later on shortly before midnight he telephoned that she had died in St. Joseph's Hospital.

T P & L Distributes Booklet Telling Story of Power

The part played by electricity in developing the industry, agriculture and natural resources of Texas is vividly depicted in an artistic rotogravure publication now being distributed by the Texas Power and Light Company.

Photographic studies of great machines and industrial plants, electrically operated in the big cities of the State, are interspersed with pictures showing the economic use of power in country homes, on the farms and ranches and in agricultural progress generally.

The magazine, in word and by picture, tells the story of the modern growth of Texas through dependable and steadily cheapening power service. It is virtually a text book dealing with the electrical develpoment of the state. Unusual photography enlivens the space given to statistics concerning the development of natural resources and the promotion of business and industry in Texas through power alone.

Texas Power and Light Company are distributing copies of this book to their customers. Dealing as it does with modern Texas and the industrial problems confronting the state, it is greatly in demand. Requests for copies are being filled through the company's local office.

Jurcek Returns to A. & M. After Judging Success

Louis Jurcek, junior student in poultry husbandry at A & M College was in Cameron Monday, having returned recently from Chicago where he went as a member of the poultry judging team for the State of Texas.

Employment Service Finds Jobs Here For Many Workers

If the November report of the local office of the Texas State Employment Service is indicative of general business conditions, the outlook for Christmas trade is good, due to the fact that the employment service found 253 jobs for people in Cameron during the past month, R. C. Moody, local manager, said yesterday.

Representative of the service made 176 visits to employers in Cameron, seeking openings for workers. The co-operation that local firms have shown in using the Service by phoning in orders for workers and by sending qualified applicants to the employment office for registration, is appreciated, Moody said.

Claimants for unemployment insurance have filed 114 initial claims and 6999 continuing claims for benefits within the thirty day period and jobs for these claimants are being sought by the employment service.

The most outstanding activity of the month has been 170 turkey pickers placed with the Fairmount Creamery Company.

The new home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hensley of Ad Hall was thrown open to guests Tuesday afternoon to honor the bride, Mrs. J. C. Cauthen, the former Miss Lois Powell. The entire home was decorated with Christmas wreaths, bells, candles and evergreens and furnished a lovely setting for a most happy occasion. The wedding of Mr. J. C. Cauthen and Miss Lois Powell was solemnized Nov. 23, 1938, at Buckholts by the Methodist pastor Rev. T. D. McCrary. The happy couple took a short honeymoon trip to Austin and San Antonio and will make their home with his father near Elm Ridge for this year. The bride will continue teaching at Fox School House for the present term. Mrs. W. W. Powell and Miss Fannie Mae Powell assisted Mrs. Roy Hensley in hostess duties for the bridal shower. The day was bright and beautiful and most of the homes of the neighborhood were represented by friends and neighbors who brought gifts and congratulations for the radiant bride. Guests from Fox, Elm Ridge, Jones Prairie, Maysfield and Cameron were present. Bridal contests furnished enjoyable entertainment. Guests were divided into two groups. In one room the group made a complete costume of newspapers for the bride, Miss Wanda Lou Allen, while the room's suit for Miss Mary Carlton. A mock wedding followed. A decorated basket of lovely gifts were brought before the honoree by a tiny blond bride, Mary Frances Hensley, daughtr of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hensley, and groom, Johnny Fay Glass, a brunette, niece of the bride. Exclamations of delight followed the opening of decorated gift boxes and the bride expressed thanks for each. A party plate bearing hot chocolate with marshmallows, and fruit cake topped with whipped cream and pecans, was served to about one hundred guests.

For entertainment the play entitled "The Schlitz Murder Case" was presented with members of the BTU as characters. The part of the reader was given by Alice Fanning, Old Henry by Curtis Lowe, and Detective Vilo Vance by Rex Lowe. After the presentation of the mystery play, tne group went into the primary department of the church which was attractively decorated in a color scheme reflecting the picturesque atmosphere of Old Mexico. Huge sycamore leaves, red peppers, and autumn decorations were used. Sycamore leaves served as place cards with names of the guests written on one side and a subject on the other. Each person present was requested to deliver minute talks on the subject appearing on his card preceding the partaking of his supper. Chili, crackers and coffee were served. Miss Alice Fanning gave a reading "Tony, the Italian, at the Baseball Game" which was received with much hilarity and fun. Everyone enjoyed the supper and fun very much.

Northern Outposts Await Planes With Christmas Parcels

EDMONTON, ALBERTA.—Almost forgotten by millions of Canadian and American Christmas celebrants are residents of far-flung outposts of the Canadian northwest territories. Each year they look forward to a merry Christmas—if the weather is good and parcels arrive by plane in time for the annual celebration.

Christmas express and provisions usually reach Adkavik, 1,480 miles northwest of Edmonton, a few days before Christmas. Another far-away place is Coppermine, 1,100 miles north of Edmonton on Coronation gulf. Pilot Marlowe Kennedy makes the trip to that outpost from Port Radium on Great Bear lake.

But even though Christmas provisions don't come through by airplane, residents of the arctic wastelands are brought to civilization's very door each Yuletide through the magic of radio.

Community Christmas Trees

In many American communities "civic" Christmas trees are erected each December in the main square or street and the town's Yule activities center there. Many communities also string colored lights along the streets during the season to accentuate the holiday spirit. Usually the lighting of the community tree or the special street lights is accompanied by a ceremony inaugurating the Christmas shopping season. Lights are removed immediately after New Year's Day.

Leland Stedman, severely injured some time ago in an automobile accident, has returned to his home here and is reported to be doing nicely.

Traffic Safety Committee.

As I said last week, the campaign for greater safety on Texas highways and the reduction of the loss of life from reckless driving has given me as much satisfaction as anything I have attempted to do on the air.

Governor Allred heard of this work and appointed me a member of the state-wide committee on traffic safety. As I related this on the radio program:

The other day I stopped at the Capitol in Austin, just to see what the boys were doing, and Governor Jimmie spied me loafing around. So he got me into his office and told me that folks who loitered around the Capitol had to work. He gave me, therefore, a job as a member of the safety committee, and he wants me to talk to all who listen to our radio programs and to urge you to get behind your legislators in seeing that enough laws are passed to cut down this menace to life and limb on our beautiful highways.

Put More Teeth in the Law.

Seated around thousands of radios right now are little boys and girls who are going to school. Look them over. One of them may be killed by a drunken driver or a reckless driver during this year. Do you want to save their lives? It can only be done by putting more teeth in our laws. Drunken drivers can't be careful. There is no use to preach to them. But before they get drunk, they ars sober; and while they are sober, if they know of a severe penalty for driving while drunk, they will arrange for a chauffeur before they get drunk. Don't wait until death strikes one in your family. It is too late, then. Listen to this letter:

"San Antonio, Texas, January 4. Dear Mr. O'Daniel: I had written you before I heard your beautiful program Sunday. Indeed this year will be a sad dark one for me as my husband was killed just as the last year was closing. It was such a terrible schock I can't realize he won't come back. He was working on a road job near Uvalde, running a roller. He had just cranked his roller and started to step up on it—it was clear off the road on the shoulder—when one of those speed-mad drivers came over the hill. They said he was driving ninety or niney-five miles an hour. I don't know what happened to that driver, but, anyway, he crashed into the roller, pinning my husband between the car and the roller, crushing off one leg from his body. My husband lived only a little over an hour. They said he never knew what had hit him. I didn't get to see him alive. Mr. O'Daniel, it is just more than I can stand—he was a perfect husband. We had just bought a little home and he hoped to be able to take life easy in a year or so. I wish you could say something about this on your next Sunday's program. I will be listening. The man that did it never came to see me or ever said he was sorry. I wish you would sing a pretty, sacred song and pray that I may have strength and mind to rear my two darling little girls. I know you are a good man and your words will surely comfort me."

That fine letter was signed by Mrs. C. A. Pearce. What comfort could we give that fine woman in the terrible loss of her loved one? But by telling of her grief and allowing me to put her message on the air, I feel sure that good woman has done much to hault the unthinking and the heedless speed demons on our highways.

Writes a Poem to Point Dangers.

Many of our early morning programs have been devoted to the boys and girls just starting off to school. In this greater safety campaign many of our talks have been directed to these youngsters, urging them to take every precaution possible on the highways and in crossing streets, since many automobile drivers do not use the caution they ought to. Here is how I would try to get their attention:

Each Saturday morning we put on a program urging little boys and girls to be careful on the highways and streets. It's simply terrible the number of little folks who get killed or crippled for life in this way. When an accident comes close to our family or friends, it makes us realize more and more how essential it is to be careful. I wrote a poem that tells you this better than any other way. It reads:

Did you see that big fine auto
That went dashing down the street?
Did you hear him squawk his squawker,
Making everyone retreat?

Did you hear him cuss the driver
Of that little Model T?
Yelling, "Hey there, Rube—move over,
Can't you see that this is me?"

Did you see him cut the corner
Where that old man tried to cross?
Hear him holler, "Look out, stranger,
If you're hit, it's not much loss?"

Through the residential section
Where the kiddies are at play,
This big auto and its driver
Continues recklessly on its way.

Now, folks, there's one big problem,
We can't change folks much, they say;
Unless we go about it,
In a peculiar sort of way.

Let's just set a grand example
For those folks who act that way,
And when we get behind our wheel,
Drive carefully—night and day.

Rome, they say, was not built in a day. Nor will Texas solve this great problem of safe driving in a day, a month, or a year. The fight must go on. As Governor I will have just as great an interest in seeing this terrible death roll cut down as before. And I ask everyone, men, women and children, to work with me in seeing that we make progress toward our goal.

Next Week—Young Friends.

Cameron Boy Receives Serious Burn on Face

Jimmie Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stewart of Cameron, prominent on the Yoemen football team of 1936 and 1937 and a member of the Yoe High graduating class of 1938, received serious injuries several weeks ago when he tripped and fell while carrying a five gallon can containing hot tar.

Stewart was employed with a pipe line company at the time he was hurt and they were removing old pipe. He tripped on a log, fell forward and the hot fluid splashed upward and burned his upper lip, the lower part of his face and his neck. He was taken to a Conroe hospital for treatment.

His parents were not notified of the accident until last week although this is the fourth week he has been in the hospital. His father reports that he is much improved and expects to leave the hospital within the next ten days.

As the child's phrase has it, supposin' some dreadful calamity should overnight destroy the world's supplies of crude and manufactured petroleum lubricants. What would result? Friction would destroy all save an infinitesimal few of our prized machines, and the work of the world would stop. Overnight, civilization would be set backward a thousand years.

No less important than lubricants in general to the world's work is the selection of the proper lubricant for your own—whether you operate a hay baler or a factory employing a thousand men.

The Humble Company specializes in specialized lubricants. It has kept up with the march of machine progress by manufacturing just the right oil, just the right grease each machine needs. The list of these lubricants is too long to print here; it fills a thick catalogue. The point is, each of them has some particular purpose to serve in the mechanical scheme of things, and they're all available to Texans through Humble bulk stations. Discuss your lubrication problem with a Humble representative; chances are, he can show you how to increase both efficiency and economy of machine operation.

Gillis

citizen of these countries had been deprived of liberties which people in democratic countries are privileged to enjoy.

In concluding his discuession of the relative forms of government now existing in the world, Judge Gillis made a plea for the preservation of the Constitution of the United States, the courts and our system of democratic government as the best safeguard against dissolution of the American system and of our ideals.

E. H. Coffield, life-long friend of Judge Gillis, made the introductory speech, presenting the speaker as an able jurist and informed on domestic and world affairs.

The address given by Judge Gillis was one of a number of such talks made before the Cameron Rotary Club during recent weeks. At a previous meeting Rabbi Macht of Waco discussed the effects of present day social legislation, relief, and general government subsidies to citizens of this country and expressed fear that we are shortly to reap harmful results. The other address along these lines was made by Rev. T. F. O'Sullivan of Burlington already reported in these columns.
